A print of the National Flag of the United States of America, past and present, is introduced by Ultimate Achievements, LLC. The print, in full color, pictures chronologically each flag change with its matching event description.

Each flag shown on the Saga of Courage print is based on an authentic original with the historic descriptions provided by the Flag Research Center. The lack of standards prior to 1912 means that other variations were used as well. The author of the poem, "O Flag: Saga of Courage", was inspired to provide a chronologic overview with matching descriptive events with each flag on a single print.

Each day the news presents a continual reminder for our need to strengthen and apply resolve to preserve the values to the Bill of Rights and pursuits of the Constitution of the United States. The Saga of Courage flag print and "O Flag: Saga of Courage" poem are reminders and encouragement which inspire and strengthen our resolve to greater patriotic aspirations.

The initiative to write the poem was inspired in a retail setting. An employee was expressing concern about a worn flag with torn edges in a display. The author of "O Flag: Saga of Courage" asked the clerk, "Over how many battles has our flag flown to make it look so worn and torn?" An informative discussion ensued. The employee and others present responded favorably to the history of our flag, our nation's highest symbol of recognition. That evening the poem was written.

"O Flag: Saga of Courage," poem and poster will impact the reader's spirit. The USA National Flag print and the poem will display honor in many settings and express "allegiance to the flag of the United States."
